Political Signs with Vulgar Language

After the discussion of the political sign ordinance on town property, Ed said he was recently driving down South Main Street with his young children in the car and noticed a big sign in someone's yard of a political nature with the "F" word on it. He said does the town consider this to be a public nuisance. He said he feels this could be a hazard for people driving by and rubber necking to look back at it. Scott said he reached out to NHMA to inquire if the town has the power to stop the display of signs that contain vulgar language or that insight violence, he is awaiting a response.
